ReBulet, 6/12/59.

The Attorney General's Special Group has advised the Bureau that they are interested in 386 individuals throughout the United States. The above-captioned individual is one of approximately 100 individuals coming within the territory of the NY Division. Therefore, it is recommended a pending top hoodlum case be opened regarding the captioned individual.

The Bureau has instructed that a report incorporating all pertinent information available in the NYO regarding the captioned individual be submitted to reach the Bureau by 7/10/59.

If, during the course of garnering this information it is indicated that the captioned individual operated or lived for a time in the territory of another field office, that particular office should be instructed to submit in report form, a summary of information from its files. A copy of this request to an auxiliary office should be furnished for the Bureau.

The cover letter submitting the report to the Bureau on 7/10/59 should contain recommendations as to whether or not the captioned individual should become the subject of an active investigation under the Top Hoodlum Program.

VINCENT GIGANTE.

Gigante Was Super At Project

By ALEX BENSON and FRED J. COOK,
World-Telegram Staff Writers.

Vincent (The Chin) Gigante, described by federal prosecutors as "the No. 1 boy" of racket king Vito Genovese, drew two salaries from the Washington Square Village Corp. during the early stages of the taxpayer-aided slum clearance development, the World-Telegram learned today.

Gigante, who was acquitted by a jury on charges he bounced a bullet off the skull of mobster Frank Costello on May 2, 1957, was a building superintendent for the Title 1 slum clearance developers at the time, according to detectives who investigated the Costello shooting.

Police reports showed Gigante had been living, up until the night of the shooting, at 134 Bleecker St., a building within the slum clearance site, and that he was employed there as a super.

2 Forms Made Out.

Whether he also managed a second building for the sponsors wasn't clear, but payroll records filed by the Washington Square Village Corp. in the city Comptroller's office showed that two federal withholding tax forms had been made out for Gigante.

One form showed that he had received $225 in wages in 1957; the other reported payment of $675—a total of $900.

Detectives who investigated the abortive attempt to rub out Costello pieced together a detailed picture of Gigante's dual role as mobster and building superintendent.

In his first role as an underworld strongarm, Gigante brushed the coattails of gangdom's great, detectives found. He was known to Costello; he was an intimate of Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo, a Greenwich Village and North Jersey power—and, finally, of Genovese.

Fought Handyman.

In his second role as building super, Gigante didn't over-exert himself. Detectives found he had a Negro handyman who did most of the dirty work. Early in 1957, according to detectives, Gigante and the handyman had a fight.

Some of Gigante's boys piled on the handyman, the handyman's pals came to his aid—and in the scuffle Gigante wound up with a stab wound.

Not long afterward, Frank Costello got out of a cab in front of his swank Central

Park W. apartment house, and as he was walking through the lobby, someone let off a shot that might have killed him if he hadn't turned his head in the nick of time.

Detectives investigating the case get a description of the killer as a paunchy, hulking man who waddled. They conducted a long hunt for Gigante, who had vanished from his post as a Washington Sq. super, and eventually brought him to trial. But the jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

The decision did not mark the end of The Chin's experiences with the law. These experiences had begun, according to police reports, in 1945 and had included arrests on such charges as criminally receiving stolen goods, larceny, arson, violation of the Sullivan Law, bookmaking and gambling.

The jury in the Costello shooting case acquitted Gigante on May 23, 1958, but already other trouble was brewing.

His mentor, Vitto Genovese, had had the bad fortune to be picked up at the Apalachin gangland convention on Nov. 14, 1957, while The Chin was in prison waiting trial. The public hullabaloo about the Mafia conclave put federal investigators on the trail, and Gigante and Genovese were

Felon Once Held Village Title I Job

Vincent "The Chin" Gigante, 30, underworld hood once accused of trying to kill Frank Costello, was briefly on the payroll of a huge Title I housing project in Greenwich Village, it was disclosed today.

The ex-pugilist, now serving a 7-year sentence for narcotics conspiracy, received a total of $900 on two payrolls of the Washington Square Village Corp. in 1957.

Records filed by the corporation with the City Controller's office showed the money was pay for his salary partly as superintendent of the building at 134 Bleecker st., where Gigante lived.

ANOTHER HINTED

One payroll showed he received a total of $225, the other a total of $675, indicating he may have been superintendent of still another building in the area taken over for the slum clearance project.

The structure at 134 Bleecker st. subsequently was demolished.

Gigante, apparently "inherited" by the housing promoters when they took title to the land, was living at 134 Bleecker st. on May 20, 1957, when a gunman wounded Frank Costello as a kingpin gambler entered his apartment at 115 Central Park West.

The hulking former prize fighter subsequently was accused of the shooting but was acquitted by a jury on May 28, 1958.

Later, he was among 36 persons indicted by the Federal Government in a world-wide narcotics conspiracy ring and on April 18 of this year, following his conviction, received the 7-year sentence he now is serving.

Sentenced the same day to a 15-year term on a similar conviction was racket czar Vito Genovese. Federal prosecutors had described Gigante as "the No. 1 boy of this man Genovese."

Payments to Gigante as superintendent of the building on Bleecker st. ended at the time of the Costello shooting, when Gigante disappeared for a time.

In another development of the Title I controversy, Controller Gerosa stepped into the picture yesterday by accusing Robert Moses of being "arbitrary and dictatorial" in handling the city slum clearance program.

SUBJECT: [REDACTED]

On 9/27/60, [REDACTED] furnished the following information to SA [REDACTED] regarding the attempted murder of FRANK COSTELLO. He identified his source of this information as VINCENT "CHIN" GIGANTI.

During the time COSTELLO was in prison he frequently walked up and down the corridors and acted in other similar ways that indicated that the imprisonment really "got to him". Other major criminals who learned of COSTELLO's actions sent word to him to control himself, cautioning that he was giving all of them a bad name. After he was released he continued to act as tho he had lost his self confidence and was considered as "broken" by his associates.

VITO GENOVESE needed some additional illegal interests for some of his underlings and directed that they move in on some of COSTELLO's holdings. Two bookmakers who had been handling a big business in the midtown area under COSTELLO were approached by GENOVESE men who announced that they were cutting themselves in for 50% of the take without any investment. They were told off by the two bookies, who in turn advised COSTELLO. COSTELLO sought the help of ANTHONY ANASTASIA who interceded with GENOVESE for COSTELLO. GENOVESE instead ordered the shooting of ANASTASIA for siding with COSTELLO and then hired GIGANTI to kill COSTELLO. The two bookmakers mentioned were taken over by GENOVESE's men and presently operate the car paring lot next to the New Yorker Hotel on 44th St.

After GIGANTI failed in his attempt to kill COSTELLO, COSTELLO pleaded for his own life sayin' he would give up everything if they would leave him alone. He was told that every illegal enterprise that he controlled was being taken from him and that he would be allowed to retain only those enterprises of a legitimate nature in which he had invested. He was to keep away entirely from anything illegal. He was told that if he did not do as he was directed he was as good as dead. He was further told to pay the attorney fee for GIGANTI and pay him $5,000 for his "inconvenience". COSTELLO made the payments and released all his illegal holdings after making an unsuccessful effort to retain some interests in New Orleans which GENOVESE took over.

GIGANTI appears to have no fear of any reprisal for his attempt to murder COSTELLO.

Approximately 10 years ago VINNIE MAURO was acting as the "chemist" for opium which he was converting to heroin. MAURO was allegedly getting his raw material from some place in Turkey, and after refinement, was selling his entire output to "Chi-Chi" SCALISE, probably FRANK SCALISE. SCALISE had three Italians working for him on the distribution of the narcotics, known only as [REDACTED], "LITTLE TONY", and [REDACTED]. As time went on all three of SCALISE's distribution men were caught and sent to jail. "LITTLE TONY" got 10 years, [REDACTED] got 12 years, and [REDACTED] got 15 years.

"big money" to maintain their silence. SCALISE became genuinely worried that they would talk, so he went to VINNIE MAURO and asked MAURO if he would help him raise the money. MAURO stated that it was none of his concern since they were SCALISE's men, and SCALISE must raise the money himself.

SCALISE then got word to FRANK COSTELLO who was then in jail but still the big boss, and requested COSTELLO's permission to hold out payment on the next shipment of narcotics he received from MAURO, in order to use this money to pay off [REDACTED]. COSTELLO allegedly agreed to this plan, and SCALISE made known to MAURO at a restaurant located at 130th St. and Third Ave., NYC, that he did not intend to pay him for the last shipment of heroin. MAURO then went to TONY BENDER and asked for his help in this matter and to finance additional operations in narcotics. BENDER went to VITO GENOVESE and GENOVESE gave his okay, saying they would lend money for MAURO's operation, since the huge profits were supposedly worth the risk. In the meanwhile, SCALISE had to be taken care of, and when approached again by MAURO for payment, told MAURO that COSTELLO had given the okay for the non-payment. MAURO then took the word back to BENDER and GENOVESE who decided to "hit" SCALISE, and this was accomplished within ten days when SCALISE was killed on the sidewalk at 130th St. and Third Ave., NYC. JOE SCALISE, "Chi-Chi's" brother, was also eliminated later on the orders of GENOVESE.

b7C

FRANK COSTELLO then got out of jail, learned what was going on and that SCALISE had been killed on the orders of GENOVESE. COSTELLO became very angry and a split developed with MIKE MIRANDA and STROLLO siding with GENOVESE. The decision was made to "hit" COSTELLO and VINCENT "The Chin" GIGANTE was chosen for the job. GIGANTE bungled the job, but COSTELLO's wife became hysterical and said that she would leave her husband if he continued in the rackets. COSTELLO allegedly asked GENOVESE, MIRANDA and STROLLO to a meeting at the Molly Fitcher Restaurant in Red Bank, New Jersey, and told the gathering that he was stepping down. He agreed to turn over his leadership to

[REDACTED]

GENOVESE if they in turn would call off the "hit". COSTELLO explained that he was facing deportation proceedings, income tax troubles, and now the miriny of GENOVESE and others, and he wanted to "retire". This was agreed upon and GENOVESE became the undisputed leader of the COSTELLO underworld empire.

GENOVESE and STROLLO continued to furnish money to MAURO in his narcotics operation until GENOVESE was arrested on narcotics conspiracy charges and drew a fifteen-year sentence in Atlanta. GENOVESE appeared to feel that MAURO was the one who had gotten him into trouble and ordered STROLLO to sever all connections with MAURO and the narcotics operation, saying it was too risky and to concentrate on gambling, book-making and shylocking. STROLLO, however, continued to work with MAURO against the orders of GENOVESE, and was repeatedly warned by GENOVESE through his brother, MIKE GENOVESE, to stay away from that "Sicilian bastard".

STROLLO continued to ignore GENOVESE's instructions in this matter, and when MAURO was arrested on narcotics charges, it was STROLLO who put up the original bail money, and then made available the funds for MAURO to jump bail and leave the country. When GENOVESE learned this, he was furious and ordered MIKE MIRANDA to "hit" STROLLO. MIRANDA was against the "hit", saying it would cause too much unwanted publicity and bring too much heat on everyone and proposed that he try and talk some sense into STROLLO. Evidently this alternative did not work out because approximately four weeks ago when MIKE GENOVESE visited VITO GENOVESE in Atlanta, VITO told his brother to tell MIKE MIRANDA to go ahead with the STROLLO "hit". From then on it was a case of getting THOMAS EBOLI, aka Tommy Ryan, in on the plans, and evidently selecting him as the man to "finger" STROLLO.

Out-of-town killers were then brought in and the "contract" carried out either Sunday or Monday night, 4/8,9/62. The body was believed to have been disposed of in the Hackensack River.

[REDACTED] "THE CHIN" (VINCENT GIGANTE) was getting along. I got the definite impression that VITO was very fond of "THE CHIN" [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] This was a common occurrence on many occasions. From what I could learn, VINCENT "THE CHIN" GIGANTE was a big musclemann for VITO GENOVESE. I heard that [REDACTED] when he was sent to Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.

ANTHONY STROLLO
(Tony Bender)

I knew TONY BENDER (ANTHONY STROLLO) to see him [redacted]

[redacted] on those occasions he always had three or four of his men with him. A person I knew only as [redacted] was with him most of the time. I knew that he was the "big boss" of the Greenwich Village area because anytime he sent for someone they came in a hurry. I recall on one occasion that [redacted]

b6
b7C

During the times that BENDER came to [redacted]

[redacted] a story of a cellmate of VITO's who was giving him a hard time. The boys in Atlanta, [redacted] JOEY (DI PALERMO) wanted to take care of this guy immediately but VITO said no, it would bring too much attention to him. VITO said not to let anyone hear about it, especially "THE CHIN" (VINCENT GIGANTE).

b6
b7C
b7D

[redacted] VITO had told the boys he wanted no trouble because his case was supposed to come up for review in New York City and he wanted no trouble at this time.

Concerning the disappearance of ANTHONY STROLLO on April 8, 1962, the information which I heard from various sources without being able to identify anyone in particular, seemed to be that TONY was afraid of being called before the grand jury and that he may have escaped to Italy to avoid testifying. I haven't heard anybody express any particular sorrow at TONY's leaving, whether he's dead or strictly hiding out.

NARCOTICS

Insofar as narcotics operations were concerned, it was my experience that none [redacted] in New York City would have anything to do with the sale or the distribution of narcotics. In fact, anyone suspected as a user would be out.

b6
b7C
b7D

Of course, VITO (GENOVESE) was sent up on a narcotics charge and the "CHIN" (GIGANTE) also went up for narcotics, but I never heard anything of pushers or handlers working for any of the "big men" in the "Village area."

RONALD ARTHUR WILLIAMS and [REDACTED] in WILLIAMS' office) to a note concerning the CHENOWETH appeal matter.

MIKE CHENOWETH (the brother of VITO CHENOWETH) appeared [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] told MIKE CHENOWETH that he had visited the United States Penitentiary at Levensworth, Pennsylvania, on 8/23/62, and that he requested to see [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] immediately after lunch. [REDACTED] stated that when [REDACTED] appeared for interview they were given an interview room and [REDACTED] requested that [REDACTED] give him a writing pad and wrote on the scrap of paper for [REDACTED] "I think it is buggy ... say nothing about the 'grobe'". [REDACTED] then explained to CHENOWETH that "grobe" is German or Yiddish for "big". Evidently [REDACTED] was considering [REDACTED] not to mention anything concerning VITO CHENOWETH. [REDACTED] then asked that [REDACTED]

write him another note and in telling MIKE CHENOWETH the contents of the note, [REDACTED] phrased in a very low voice information to the effect that "There is a person in Levensworth who can bring it to the attention of the gov." The names of this conversation between [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were not mentioned in any of this memo.

[REDACTED] then went on to explain to MIKE
CHENOWETH that he had seen VIRGINE "The Chin" GIGANTI.
[REDACTED] stated that a patrol officer at the prison took with GIGANTI, and [REDACTED] pointed to MIKE CHENOWETH that he only came down to see GIGANTI to give him a copy of the Appellate Brief which would be argued before the Court of Appeals in the VITO CHENOWETH case, and the points of law contained therein would also apply to GIGANTI. [REDACTED] stated that "The Chin" was telling
"You know I was scared, [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] stated that he applied to the parole officer. "I don't know whether the Government feared you or whether the Government bought a lying witness". [redacted] also stated that the parole officer said something about "I heard there was some kind of talk about a witness recanting". [redacted] further stated that he let the parole officer see a copy of the GENOVESE Appellate brief and later gave the brief to GIGANTE.

[redacted] also stated that while the parole officer was reading the GENOVESE brief, GIGANTE kept calling the parole officer obscene names to [redacted] in a whispered voice. [redacted] further related to MIKE GENOVESE that it was his impression the parole officer wanted to ascertain if there was any connection between VINCENT "The Chin" GIGANTE [redacted] and both convicted on narcotics violations and both were represented by the same attorney.

It is noted that Philadelphia teletype to the Bureau and New York on 5/29/62, which confirmed the visit of [redacted] to Lewisburg Penitentiary not forth that convict [redacted] had been sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the SDNY on 9/15/59, under provisions of the Youth Correction Act on a narcotics violation. [redacted] sources advised that [redacted] is a follower of GENOVESE and GIGANTE and had been placed in punitive segregation as a result of a protest over the transfer of Italian inmates. This communication further noted that the parole officer present during the interview with GIGANTE was [redacted]

[redacted] then explained to MIKE GENOVESE that "The Chin" "wanted him to go ahead with it", referring to an appeal to be submitted on behalf of [redacted] stated that "we will have to see what has to be done in this matter ... there is a prison over there (referring evidently to an unknown location in Brooklyn) that can talk to this guy in Brooklyn". [redacted] continued that he would have to

Call to [redacted] of VINCENTE GIGANTE, as was the priest is. [redacted] then stated that he left the penitentiary and returned to his home in Connecticut.

Conversation then centered around the real estate development in Old Lyme, Connecticut, in which GEMOVESE and [redacted] are interested in purchasing. [redacted] also mentioned to MIKE GEMOVESE that MIKE should try to have someone present at the bidding (for the Connecticut property) "who can help us or we don't get absorbed in bidding the property up". [redacted] then informed MIKE GEMOVESE that the GEMOVESE appeal matter was filed in the SDNY (US Court of Appeals, 2nd Circuit) on 8/30/60. [redacted] further advised MIKE GEMOVESE that anything which was said at Lewisburg between he and GIGANTE "was taken down and Washington would know about it within a matter of hours". [redacted] then discussed the appeal saying that everything was in order and that the appeal brief had caused quite a furor when he had filed it on 8/30/62.

[redacted] then talked with the office of EDWARD ROBERT WILLIAMS, Washington, D.C., and advised the [redacted] in WILLIAMS' office, that the GEMOVESE brief had been filed and oral argument on the brief had been scheduled for 9/14/62. [redacted] further noted that the Government must file their answer to the brief on 11/29/62.

It should be noted that the GEMOVESE appeal brief is styled US vs. Aviles. It is noted that one [redacted] Bryant, New York, was sentenced to ten years imprisonment for a narcotics conspiracy violation and convicted at the same trial on which VITO GEMOVESE was also convicted.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date 9/24/62

Questioned concerning the historical evolution of the current five "families" of "Causa Nostra" in the New York area, [] advised that during the latter part of 1929, and for about a year thereafter, a group of Castellamarese (Sicilians) under SALVATORE MARANZANO, with another group under THOMAS GAGLIANO, rebelled against JOE MASSERIA. MARANZANO became "boss" of the rebels which included JOSEPH BONANNO, JOSEPH PROFACI, STEFANO MAGADDINO from Buffalo, New York, THOMAS GAGLIANO, THOMAS LUCHESE, FRANK SCALISE, ALBERT ANASTASIA, CARLO GAMBINO, JOSEPH BIONDO, and others. MASSERIA was the "boss" of CHARLES LUCIANO, VITO GENOVESE, CIRO TERRANOVA, WILLIE MORETTI, JOE ADONIS, FRANK COSTELLO, and others.

MARANZANO forces increased during the war to the point where he was numerically stronger than MASSERIA. When this occurred, and to save themselves from being wiped out, CHARLES LUCIANO and VITO GENOVESE with CIRO TERRANOVA, FRANK LIVORSI and JOSEPH STRACI, conspired in the murder of MASSERIA. CHARLES LUCIANO became "boss" of MASSERIA's men, and VITO GENOVESE was "underboss". MARANZANO became "boss of the bosses", and peace was made. MAGADDINO returned to Buffalo, New York.

MARANZANO, according to [] wanted to destroy the remainder of MASSERIA's followers, and tried to use VINCENT COLL, called "Mad Dog", and his gang to do it. THOMAS LUCHESE turned against MARANZANO, and conspired with CHARLES LUCIANO and VITO GENOVESE to murder MARANZANO.

With MARANZANO's death, JOSEPH BONANNO took over his men; JOSEPH PROFACI was made "boss" of another gang in Brooklyn; THOMAS GAGLIANO was a "boss" with LUCHESE as

"underboss"; VINCENT MANGANO deposed FRANK SCALISE as "boss" and made ALBERT ANASTASIA "underboss"; and CHARLES LUCIANO was named "boss" with VITO GENOVESE "underboss".

When VITO GENOVESE fled to Italy, and CHARLES LUCIANO was imprisoned, FRANK COSTELLO took over as "boss", after a man named SHIEK (phonetic) who was "boss" for a year died a natural death.

ALBERT ANASTASIA murdered VINCENT MANGANO and his brother, and took over as "boss", making FRANK SCALISE "underboss". He later had SCALISE murdered, and was murdered himself when VITO GENOVESE, CARLO GAMBINO and JOSEPH BIONDO conspired against him. CARLO GAMBINO became "boss" and BIONDO was made "underboss".

VITO GENOVESE conspired with ANTHONY STROLLO and VINCENZO MAURO to kill FRANK COSTELLO, according to [REDACTED]

COSTELLO was wounded by VINCENT GIGANTE, who had the contract with THOMAS EBOLI and DOMINICK DE QUARTO. COSTELLO recovered and was later imprisoned.

GENOVESE then became "boss" with GERARDO CATENA as "underboss".

[REDACTED] stated he knew very little about the PROFACI and BONANNO "families" in Brooklyn, and did not know who succeeded PROFACI when he died. He could not name the "underbosses" of either PROFACI or BONANNO.

[REDACTED] pointed out that, with the death of THOMAS GAGLIANO, LUCHESE became "boss" and [REDACTED] "underboss". GAGLIANO died of natural causes in about 1953. He also stated that he had heard that LUCHESE now wants to get out of the rackets and that PAUL CORREALE, also known as Paulie Ham, was to take over. Nothing came of this when CORREALE died recently.

[redacted]: "I got something I want to put in -- (unintelligible)." b6

[redacted]: "Okay, I'll have to go see [redacted] (unintelligible) (unintelligible). We've only got 10 days for [redacted] (before the United States Supreme Court)." b7C

[redacted]: "What I got to put today."

[redacted]: "According to [redacted] the [redacted] can get two copies of the court's opinion. We'll need one for [redacted] and one for the 'State' (unintelligible, and [redacted] (unintelligible)." b6 b7C

[redacted]: "Okay, then I got to go see [redacted], what time are you going to get in?"

[redacted]: "Tonight. I am supposed to go to [redacted] tonight."

[redacted]: "Will then you have what I gotta do. Before I go to [redacted] I got to go see [redacted]."

NY 92-680

Q: "Another thing I want to know, how many judges do we need to get into Washington?"

A: "Yes, Combsworth."

Q: "Yeah."

Q: "Is your father the whole panel? Didn't they want you 'cause' of that? Was your dad judged to get 'cause'?"

A: "What if you got only one judge?"

Q: "No, one can't give you 'cause'."

Q: "What was your disappointment about with [redacted]?"

A: "He's very disappointed. He (UNRECORDED) doesn't understand it. The House of Appeals took an office of the [redacted] that in order to arrive at the point they decided the way and in order to arrive at another point they decided another way. The affidavits they considered wasn't even part of the record. There were two points. In upholding [redacted] they used one word, and in upholding [redacted] they used just the opposite word. As they applied the different words to arrive at their conclusion and to finish up the case that [redacted] got to the point because if we got three votes [redacted] would go free and that's why they had to finish out the panel. That's how it was, they wanted to keep [redacted] in jail, what else can I tell you."

Q: "That's why [redacted] said to me [redacted] there's no chance you coming down to court until after you've seen [redacted]?"

A: "After you've seen [redacted] you'll know with no right any. On 2/11 [redacted] on Friday (2/19/63) and I am going to Washington directly on Saturday morning."

NY 100-030

WILL: "You got 10 days to file the papers."

[REDACTED] "You've got about 10 days before they will go to prison in Washington. He will do the 'China's' house. It will be very cheap. Depending there's not a (what?) thing we can do about it. William was on one to make going to see him that the guy was right. He said so to [REDACTED] He was disappointed. Now you know like, William doesn't call this way. He said [REDACTED] I'm so disappointed you don't understand. When I called him at the prison and told him he said to go 'Go by hell!'"

WILL: "The worst I expected was a 2 to 3 sentence. And they said just send it on to the Supreme Court and try to get it out to do the job, you do the job."

[REDACTED] "I want to take a copy of the decision out to Vice."

b6
b7c

WILL: "You, Vice will come to see it?"

[REDACTED] "How that side to get what you will have some thing for it, straight?"

WILL: "I was supposed to get it from night."

[REDACTED] "As long as I have it before tomorrow afternoon. That will do it. I'll go out with it and then I'll go over and call William from London and arrange to meet him Friday night or Saturday morning."

WILL: "That is a little sorry."

[REDACTED] "Well, with him being so disappointed as to be I say to take to get him to have a little."

WILL: "That's sorry, I'm disappointed too, and so when you thing, so only you can make nice."

NY 62-092

[redacted] "That's right."

MEER: "We blew this one, precisely!"

[redacted] "We blew this one, what we have to learn: say other things."

MEER: "We'll have to go along with William for now."

[redacted] "Why, that's so."

MEER: "I'll see you later."

[redacted] When told MEER that he will see him at [redacted] office (the GILBERT circumstances).

[redacted] "Well, I'm going to need a few dollars for this trip. I'm going to get acquainted with one of them boys at top of I am. [redacted] He's even paid me for this trip I made for him to Kentucky, that time I was 'the man'. The most important thing now is for me to get those papers from you and I'll see to it - - - I don't care how I have to talk to Willie, he will have to pay me in. Whether he places it in front of the Supreme Court, it's got to go in his position. Now he may not be able to pay it in. He may be (certain time go off now) before the Supreme Court he will be for William to wait time."

From the above conversation it is not entirely clear what information MEER furnished is in connection of having [redacted] easy to obtain money. MEER explicitly stated this information included in Vito's petition for bail before the United States District Court as of a position for releasing of the Court of Appeals. It is noted that the informant reported that MEER's role in the beginning of the above conversation was very
